

The biological value of dry whey protein concentrate Mirinova A.

Abstract. Defined amino acid composition of dry whey protein concentrate obtained by ultrafiltration industrial environments with casein whey and milk whey. Calculated biological value concentrates chemical method. Based on these data we can recommend the use of concentrates as additives to improve the biological value of food.

Key words: ultrafiltration, whey protein concentrates, amino acid composition, essential amino acids, biological value.