

TO QUESTION OF SYSTEM OF BODIES OF STATE ADMINISTRATION IN FIELD OF LANDS OF HOUSING AND PUBLIC CONSTRUCTION

A.V. ROMANENKO, *researcher,
National University of Life and Environmental of Ukraine

The modern administration system is investigated and the influence of the bodies of state administration is disclosed in the field of lands of housing and public construction.

System of bodies, state administration, lands of housing and public construction.

The government base of any system is proper organization of its structure. Since the independence of the Ukrainian state the process of reformation of administrative-state administration of the system of its bodies has been lasting. There is a search of the optimal system of bodies of state administration during all this period. In present conditions of reformation of the system of bodies of state administration must be built on scientific bases, taking into account a number of personal and impersonal factors. In the first turn it is related to establishment of the Ukrainian statehood. Not by coincidence all this time there is a permanent process of search of the optimal system state administration.

According to the analysis of the system of bodies of state administration in the field of lands of housing and public construction, they have various influences on the system of state administration and it gives ground to divide them into the bodies of general and special competence. As the bodies of general competence are qualified: the Verkhovna Rada of Ukraine, the Cabinet of Ministers of Ukraine, the Verkhovna Rada of the Autonomous Republic of the Crimea, the Council of ministers of the Autonomous Republic of the Crimea, bodies of local self-government, local executive bodies (local state administrations).

The bodies of the special competence have various administrative influence, they should be divided into two groups. The first group involves bodies that carry out separate administrative powers and the second group is presented by the bodies that carry out departmental, branch tasks.

The bodies which execute only separate administrative powers are: the Ministry of Agrarian Policy and Food of Ukraine, State Inspection of Agriculture of Ukraine, the Ministry of Ecology and Natural Resources of Ukraine and State Ecological Inspection of Ukraine.

The bodies which carry out departmental, branch tasks are: the Ministry of regional development, construction, housing and communal services of Ukraine, State Architectural and Construction Inspectorate of Ukraine and State Agency of land resources of Ukraine.

The mentioned testifies that in spite of various influence on the system of state administration, the modern system of state bodies in the field of lands of housing and public construction serves to provide implementation of tasks of the state in this field of public relations.