

INTERSTATE STANDARDS: PERSPECTIVE

H.D.Humenyuk, Doctor of Agricultural Sciences, Professor

H.V.Babenko, Master's student

Intergovernmental standardization, agricultural production, foodstuffs, safety of labor, environment, harmonization, technical regulations, technical committees, international organizations, collaboration.

The purpose of the study. analyze planned activities to standardization of agricultural and food products and the environment for the period until 2020.

Materials and methods. served as the official working documents MDR to identify priority areas of interstate standards. We used conventional methods of analysis, synthesis, comparison, generalization.

There were analyzed documents of the Euro-Asian Council by Standardization, Certification and Metrology by problems of identification of priorities in of intergovernmental standardization of agricultural production, safety of labor, and protection of environment for the period up to 2015, and given the brief characteristic of the most significant measures to be developed in conditions of ensuring of planned measures by progress of intergovernmental standardization for the period up to 2020