

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGIES AND INNOVATIVE EDUCATION:
CAPACITY, RESOURCES AND IMPLEMENTATION MECHANISMS.

Kuzminska O.

Information environment, high school, educational resources repository, learning platform.

Globalization and technologization of a society requires changes in training of modern specialists, and therefore leads to a change of educational systems, including creation of educational information environments of universities. The article is devoted to design, development and experience of implementation of educational information environments in an educational process and scientific activity of universities. The article describes approaches to training of students and teaching staff of the National University of Life and Environmental Sciences of Ukraine for effective implementation and development of its information environment resources. Conducted monitoring of the information environment resources usage confirms the prospects of the developed by the author model and methods of its implementation.