

LEGAL PROBLEMS OF DETERMINING THE CONTENT OF STATE LAND PROPERTY IN UKRAINE

O. NASTINA, *PhD (Law),
National Agrarian University of Bila Tserkva

A study of the legal nature of state ownership of land , its subjective and objective understanding.

The stat land property, land ownership, land relations, the right of ownership of land.

Background paper due to the fact that in the legal literature modern institution of state ownership of land remains poorly understood. The article aims to explore the nature of state ownership of land.

The right of state land property in modern conditions is social content, aimed at ensuring the existence of good citizens in the state regulation of social relations and integral to the proprietors.

Contents of state land property depends on the conceptual apparatus - primarily on legislative definitions of "property", "ownership", "land relations," Land ", from the definition of land as an object of civil circulation, as well as awareness human land as a natural resource to the degree of social development of individual States.

Legal content of state land property in the dynamics of the implementation of the law relevant actors driven by economic categories, revealing his understanding, so we offer determining the nature of the content of state ownership of land seen in aspects of the right state land property related subjects - economic content and legislative fix social relations of state land property a legal sense.

Only a comprehensive study of state land property through legal, economic, social, political and philosophical understanding of its nature will help determine the content of state ownership of land and solve the problems of legal regulation.

Today in academia prevailing view is that the legal description of state land property is assigning objects of nature land, where appropriation is to apply the law in a certain way opportunities to possess, use and dispose of land ownership.

The study of the legal nature of state land property is a promising area of research. Contents of state land property is revealed through such things as property, legal state ownership of land. Definition of state land property should be considered in the light of relevant social, political and economic development. Contents of state land property defined as elements of relationships as objects and subjects of legal relations, the legal relationship (rights and obligations of parties relationship). The right of state land property can be seen in various aspects: objective and subjective sense, economic and legal sense, because the dynamics of the exercise of powers of possession, use, disposal and management of land.